Inspiring...Learning...Together

7.6.19 - Overall attendance this week = 87.7%. Well done Kestrels for having the best attendance at 95.5%; with Kingfishers at 86.2%; Moles at 79.4% & Owls at 83.5%. This week all four classes fell below North Yorkshire's target of 97%. Taking holidays in term time impacts on learning & friendships. We encourage families to understand the impact this has on their children's life chances.

Our week:

Owls - Owl Class have had quite a few visitors this week! After finding a spider, the children made a habitat for it and decided to call it Sid. Everyone has been very interested to observe it. Tiny caterpillars for our butterfly garden arrived on Thursday - they have already grown much longer. We have learned such a lot of information about caterpillars already. Did you know that they shed their skin three times? This morning two small African Land snails arrived to make Owl Class their home. We are very excited about being mini-beast detectives.

Moles - have had an exciting first week back in school! We have had a mystery egg delivered by Dr. Geller from the Natural History Museum in London. We can't wait until Monday to see what might have happened to the egg over the weekend!

Kingfishers - What a fabulous first week back! We have started our on Forces, looking at the different ways things move and are keen to carry out our investigation next Wednesday. The children have blown us away this week with their amazing independent writing of an ending for our story The Minpins. Remember our times table challenge, keep practicing at home. Can you move up the next star on Monday?

Kestrels - have been busy learning their lines and songs ahead of the performance of Rock Bottom. Things are coming along nicely!

In English Kestrels have written reports and poems about D-Day. In maths the children have been using scales to take accurate measurements.

A quick note from Mr Cook— An excellent 1st week back everyone! Owls enjoyed staying in school until 5.30pm enjoying stories and pyjamarama fun! Good luck to our Year6s who are at Beverley Park next week—we wish them well! Thank you to everyone for making such an effort with smart school uniform—it makes such a difference to individual pupils; classes and the school. #woodfield# bethebestyoucanbe #ambassadors #superstars
